Erap 'drops' plan to fight 'Dirty Harry'—as of now

By Christine V. Espinosa

THERE will be no showdown between "Dirty Harry" and "Manong Laksoy" as long as he lives.

Claiming he has "nothing more to prove" in the political arena, deposed President Joseph "Erap" Estrada yesterday indicated he might not be running for mayor of Manila after all.

The former star-turned-politician who after his questionable ouster in 2001 and conviction for plunder in 2007, has been at pains to prove his political staying power, said he might now focus on campaigning for the candidates of the new United Nationalist Alliance (UNA).

But true or his tough-guy persona image, Estrada made it clear that he was

P-Noy rating dips from very good to good in SWS poll

PUBLIC satisfaction with the performance of the Aquino administration has slipped from a "very good" last score of plus-56 in December to a "good" net score of plus 46 in March, according to a recent survey by the Social Weather Stations (SWS).

The survey showed 46 percent of respondents were satisfied while 18 percent were dissatisfied with the administration's general performance.

In terms of addressing specific issues, the survey found that the administration scored "very good" net satisfaction ratings in helping the health-capped (plus 57), helping victims of disaster (plus 57), and protecting human rights (plus 50).

It scored a "poor" minus 17 in resolving the Maguindanao massacre case with justice, its lowest mark among 19 issues raised in the survey. The survey conducted from March 30 to 31, used face-to-face interviews with 1,200 respondents. It had a margin of error of plus-or-minus 3 percentage points.

Misleading officials appeared pleased with the survey results and said the findings would spur the administration all the more to do what was best for the country.

The net satisfaction score is the difference between the percentage of satisfied and dissatisfied responses.

RACIST, ILL-INFORMED

Binay hits slur on PH nurses

By Jerry C. Espinosa

VICE PRESIDENT Jejomar Binay yesterday slammed Washington, DC, Congress for accusing Binay he has racist remarks against Filipino nurses working in US hospitals.

Dismissing Binay's comments as "ill-informed" and "unintentional," Binay said in a statement that it is unfortunate that such negative emotions would come from an American public official.

Binay took offense at Binay's observation in a recent US budget hearing commentary that US hospitals were crowded with immigrant nurses.

"It's so bad that if you go to the hospital now, you find a number of immigrant nurses who are nurses, particularly from the Philippines," Binay said. "Let's give our own nurses... so that our kids have to be rearranging around in our community clinics and other kinds of places, having to hire people from somewhere else."

Binay, who is also the government's housing and presidential adviser on overseas Filipino workers' concerns, said Binay "needs to be reminded that the United States is a nation built on the sacrifice of immigrants."

Filipinos contributed greatly

He noted that Filipino nurses "have contributed greatly to providing health services to millions of Americans."

"Filipino nurses are recognized for their dedication to their work and the special care and attention they provide to their patients. Public officials like the better they should recognize them," said Binay.

On Wednesday, Philippine Ambassador to the US Jose Luis Romualdez

Binay's comments, calling them "intendence and untrue-minded."

Casas also criticized Binay's "prejudice for blaming Asians," saying it "fosters racism, discrimination and violence."

The National Federation of Hispanic-American Associations (Nafaa) and the Hispanic Heritage Commission, both based in the US capital, slammed Binay for his "racist and bigoted" statements.

Nafaa's Jose Valdez said they "regret this continued state building by elected officials like Mr. Binay and demand that he apologize for his insensitive and irresponsible remarks."

The group also asked Binay to "engage in a meaningful dialogue with our community as we continue to advance the broader American public about the significant contributions that our diverse immigrant communities have made to this country."

Govt stops Boracay structures on Ati land

By T. Burgeon

THE GOVERNMENT has banned those people from developing a beach-front property that is part of the Ati ancestral land on world-famous Boracay Island.

In another landmark case on Wednesday, the National Commission on Indigenous Peoples (NCIP) granted a portion bought by the Ati and permanently stopped the Boracay, Negros Occidental, and Iloilo Island from settling on the Ati ownership rights on the 2.5-hectare property in Boracay, Marikina, Marikina.

The NCIP also ordered Boracay, Marikina, and Iloilo to stop their further building structures on the property located on the southeast end of the island coast.

"That's no longer their. They should not be encroaching on others," NCIP Chair Cecilia Maglaque said in a statement.

The NCIP also requested the Department of the Interior and Local Government and the Philippine National Police to ensure the total return of the site, who moved into a portion of the property on April 17 despite development by the three companies.

"They've been there since [Wednesday]," Maglaque said, explaining why there was no need for a formal investigation.

Maglaque said the NCIP issued an order to halt the Ati on the property, for a set of grounds.

In January 2013, the NCIP awarded a Certificate of Ancestral Domain Title to the Ati, the first subdivision of the island, who bought a portion in 2000 as he grew legal protection of their ancestral land.

Ailing Abadilla convict renews plea for pardon

By Mike Pineda

ONE OF THE men convicted in the murder of Manila Law enforcer Ailing Abadilla has reiterated his appeal to President Aquino for pardon, citing his failing health.

In a phone interview yesterday, Lealito Zamora told the National he was sent to the National Prison and Jail System by Justice at the national productivity because they imposed problems with his transferred body.

"One of the doctors at NPSB suspect my kidney may be failing," he explained, adding that he was waiting the results of test to confirm his kidney health.

He pleaded to Aquino for clemency, explaining that while the Supreme Court upheld their conviction nine years ago, he could not have survived nine years in custody if he were not so strongly convicted of the crime.

Remembering when Aquino is "please take a look at my appeal."

"Thank you, President, help me," he said, adding "We've already suffered for something we were not."

Remembering how he had a kidney ailment in 2000, he said he was eight years after the operation, he still had kidney stones a week after the surgery, barely moved in his bed.

He recalled that after his transplant, he did not feel like his new kidney would be good for about 10 years of proper functioning, but the period could be shorter due to the stone was not allowed to move.

Compromising his kidney problems were other health issues including liver disease, hypertension, an enlarged heart and others, he said.

Unusual heat affecting Baguio water supply

Wage hike for Calabugan

By J. J. J. J.

Calabugan, a town in the province of Ilocos Norte, has announced a 10 percent wage hike for its municipal employees. The hike is the highest in the region, according to the local government. The town's mayor, who is also the governor of the province, said the hike was necessary to attract and retain qualified personnel. The hike will be implemented starting next month.

The wage hike is part of a broader effort to improve the town's infrastructure and services. The town has recently completed a new road and is planning to build a new school. The wage hike is expected to help the town attract more qualified personnel to work on these projects.

The Philippines were looking to send a message to the United States, said President Benigno Aquino III, who said the nation is ready to defend its territory in the South China Sea. The Philippines has been in a long-term battle with China over the South China Sea.

The Philippines has formally asked China to respect its sovereignty over the shoal, as well as its sovereign rights under international law, specifically the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS).

Good case

"We have a good case over Scarborough Shoal," said Aquino. "We have a strong legal case, and we have a strong moral case. We have a strong moral case because we are the first to discover the shoal, and we have a strong moral case because we are the first to declare it as ours."

In a note written (diplomatic communication) sent to the Chinese embassy in Manila City yesterday, the DFA also formally invited Beijing to join Manila in bringing their dispute over the South China Sea to the International Tribunal on the Law of the Sea (ITLOS) in The Hague, the Netherlands.

"This approach would resolve a long-term battle with different positions on the issue and ensure a peaceful, stable and lasting bilateral relationship between the Philippines and China," the DFA said in a statement released yesterday.

Taylor conviction sends warning to tyrants

Warlord-turned-Liberian president found guilty of war crimes, crimes vs humanity

LEIDSCHENDAM, Netherlands—Former Liberian President Charles Taylor became the first head of state since World War II to be convicted by an international war crimes court, a historic verdict that sends a message that tyrants worldwide will be tracked down and brought to justice.

The verdict came just as the court was set to begin its trial of 11 men of war crimes and crimes against humanity for serving Sierra Leone rebels in exchange for "blood diamonds" mined by slave laborers and smuggled across the border.

Judges at the Special Court for Sierra Leone said Taylor played a crucial role in allowing the rebels to continue a bloody struggle during the first African conflict of the 21st century, which ended in 2002 with more than 150,000 dead. The court found he was a key figure in the war, and his role was central to the conflict.

Syria, rebels trade blame for deadly blast

BEIRUT—UN observers have accused the Syrian regime of a deadly explosion that killed at least 15 people, while the government and the opposition traded blame over the cause of the blast.

On Thursday, Syrian state media said rebel forces were responsible for the explosion, which occurred in a crowded market in the capital, Damascus.

The explosion came just as the court was set to begin its trial of 11 men of war crimes and crimes against humanity for serving Sierra Leone rebels in exchange for "blood diamonds" mined by slave laborers and smuggled across the border.

PAL eyes 100 new planes to beef up fleet

Carrier to mount flights to Europe, East Coast

By Denise L. Lacas

PHILIPPINE Airlines plans to acquire up to 100 new aircraft over the next five years, marking its most aggressive retooling effort since the mid-1990s, according to the flag carrier's new president.

In an interview with the business press, newly appointed PAL president Raul Marcelo said the new aircraft would come in the form of regional single-aisle planes like the Airbus A320 and its higher capacity variant, the A321, as well as larger single-aisle wide-body jets.

"These PH aircraft will be in the old one-to-one ratio, the old one-to-one ratio is not there any more," he said. "We don't want to give an estimate of how much the new fleet would cost the airline, as pricing with aircraft suppliers is still subject to negotiation."

In particular, he said he would want to get more, but more with US plane maker Boeing, which only has seven slots in PAL's present 37-plane fleet.

Most of PAL's wide-body jets, like the Boeing 747-400 and the in Europe, the 787-9, as well as the East Coast of the United States.

"We want to fly to New York, Chicago and Florida, on top of our present routes to Los Angeles and San Francisco," he said, explaining that these US cities have large Filipino-American communities that would be a rich market for PAL.

He added that PAL would also like to fly to London, Rome, Paris, Seoul and Manila.

Any potential deal, however, like PAL's response plan would hinge on the government's ability to ensure the country is in "Category 1" status with the US Federal Aviation Administration. The US agency downgraded the Philippines' status to Category 2 some years ago due to concerns about the local regulatory ability to enforce safety standards.

Because of this, PAL has been unable to replace the aging 747 aircraft on its long-haul routes. PAL's fleet with new 787-9 aircraft will be replaced with only jets, of which

Palawan is in the front.

"So PAL will be its resources to help the government regain Category 1 status," he said. "We will help the Civil Aviation Administration of the Philippines reform its act."

When the government renews the certification of the Category 1 status, the PAL chief said the airline would have no problem in expanding market share that was lost to budget airlines in recent years, as well as boosting revenues and earnings.

PH imports up 4.9% to $4.993B in Feb.

By Rex T. Obispo

THE COUNTRY'S imports rose 4.5 percent in February from that of a year ago—the highest growth rate since September 2011, according to the National Statistics Office (NSO).

The development supported views that the decline in the trade sector had bottomed out, while growing demand would help fuel faster economic growth this year.

In February, the import bill reached $4.993 billion, higher than the $4.761 billion reported in the same month last year.

Also, total imported trade in goods that same month climbed 5.1 percent to $6.423 billion from a year ago. With exports up 14.6 percent from last year to $4.41 billion, the balance of trade grew to February's value as it declined $162 million.

This brought the trade gap in the first two months of the year to $1.57 billion, the statistics agency yesterday reported.

Nonetheless, analysts made up their mind a fourth of January if February, declined by 5.1 percent year-to-year to $1.422 billion, still, this was an improvement from the 28.9 percent decline in December's import bill.

Economist Cid L. Torres of the University of Asia and the Pacific said the test message that the improvement in trade

9 firms qualify for DOE oil, gas contracts bidding

By Amy B. Nolas

THE DEPARTMENT of Energy yesterday received a total of 15 bids for contracts to explore and develop highly prospective oil and gas sites in being awarded of under the Philippine Energy Contracting Round 4 for petroleum.

Only 12 firms were up for bid, having previously received the offer for the 3, 4 and 5—oil of which are in northwest Palawan—will open on July 10, to give interested parties some extra time to submit their bids.

One of the 10 bid offers, only one had qualified for further evaluation and possible award later this year, said Energy Undersecretary Joel S. Lopez in accordance to Lopez, the number of offers submitted by both local and foreign oil exploration companies under the PEOB were highly encouraging, as compared with the three previous contracting rounds conducted from 2007 to 2008, wherein only a total of 32 bids had been submitted.

"We are very happy with the results of the bidding. As far as the DOE is concerned, this has been the most successful PEOB, but at the end of the day, the number of offers was not that high," he said.

Among the companies whose offers had qualified for evaluation were Hymat Inc., M. H. Energy Ltd., Hymat Inc.

State firms receive P4.1B in subsidies

By Ronald M. Ortega

THE GOVERNMENT extended P4.1 billion in subsidies to state-owned and controlled companies in March, the bulk of which went to entities engaged in health, housing, financial and farming.

Data from the Bureau of the Treasury (BTR) showed that the amount rose from last year's P2.75 billion, down from the P2.7 billion in the same month of 2011.

This brought cumulative subsidies to state firms for the first quarter to P5.1 billion—30 percent less than the P7.1 billion reported in the same period last year.

spending on subsidies was observed in March, which was projected to be about $1 billion.

According to the Department of Budget and Management, key departments and agencies such as the Department of Education, Agriculture, Social Welfare and Development, Health, Public Works and Highways and Transportation and Communications all used the subsidies allocated each in their own way to push the more rigorous development.

"If we are to pick up spending over the next few months, agencies must ensure that they are able to ensure they program and pro-

A fitting sanctuary in the countryside

By Danilo E. Buhac

WHAT WOULD you do if you are all set to retire, but have no money saved for this particular eventuality, and have about 25 hectares of land sitting idle in the outskirts of Tagaytay City?

Simple: take the services of a real-estate architect and ask him to transform your undeveloped lot into a nice and cozy country-side retirement home.

The new estate is what an expatriate business executive did when he finally reached the age of 60 two years ago. Looking for a place where he could not only make the day and enjoy the cool and windy weather of Tagaytay in retirement, he hired a local architect, Dr. William de la Cruz, to do his job and to take him to comfort with his plan.

The owner gave the architect a free hand in what he wanted to design and do, although he just had a few "wishes" that the plan should have a chapel, a house for his two daughters to live in or to devote them to service in the city government or Tagaytay's specific requirements. That it should be for housing a number of important men.

the living around the property," Buhac added.

So, and that considering the size of the property, the owner could have continued with a development and even more money than a housing project did not for him. But he opted for a low-constructed, even-chose a traditional portion of the property and requested to remain intact for the site by "Buhac explained.

The greater inspired him to help his clients build a country house worthy of the place's scenic surroundings.

"Thinking for this particular project in a piece of cake. While the price has increased, the property is elevated and the panoramic, amazing view. It is, however, located far from the main road and could only be accessed through a narrow rocky path," Buhac explained.

The owner did not hesitate to spend more money for the building of a spacious long 6-meter wide concrete access road. "With a design and a view in place, the owner also helped a lot of families in the area who were looking for a house and had to sell their products," Buhac said.

Expansive property

With the road now in place, Buhac and his clients have been developing such an expansive property. "Initially, the main thought of building a 10-hectare estate, Buhac explained, but after a few hours of thinking, he decided that a modern Asian-inspired house would be much appropriate. A small, modern estate would also be a good fit for the owner's needs and budget. Buhac also explained that the owner wanted to build a house that would be a good fit for the owner's needs and budget. propriate for this particular project. The house is built by a company known for its traditional modern houses and modern-style color theme. All furniture, lighting, doors and ceiling, these elements are done in that style. The windows around the house are made by glass to allow enough natural light to highlight all the things inside," Buhac said.

Considering the situation of the property, he also noted that the house that would be built will be re-

There are four types of non-ferrous metal: copper, aluminum, nickel and zinc. These metals are used in a wide variety of applications, from electrical wiring to automotive parts. Copper is the most common non-ferrous metal, followed by aluminum. Nickel and zinc are used in a variety of applications, including jewelry and industrial machinery.

The Canon Camera Story

Canon's history started with the pioneering spirit of a Japanese man, bushido Goro Yoshida. By vision, Yoshida lived to rethink with machines and instruments, and was already engaged in repairing and remodeling motion picture cameras and projectors. In 1933, he started building with different 35mm focal-plane-shutter rangefinder cameras.

At the time, German-made cameras dominated the market, but they were all pricey and far beyond the reach of ordinary people. This prompted Yoshida, who said later on that he was surprised how the camera commanded exorbitant prices when their parts had only been made from inexpensive materials such as brass, aluminum, iron, and rubber.

And so together with his brother-in-law, Saburo Uchida and Tadao Maeda, a former employee of Uchida, Yoshida established the Precision Optical Instruments Laboratory in Tokyo in the pursuit to make high-end cameras more affordable to the masses.

- Yoshida and his partners reportedly started producing several 35mm rangefinder prototype-called "Theater". These cameras appeared briefly at the time, but they never got beyond the market. The only camera brought to mass today
- The "Canon Camera" (described Model) Canon's first commercial camera made with 35mm f/3.5 lens, is released in 1933. It was also Japan's first high-quality 35mm camera.

'The Avengers' packs a mighty punch

By Rita F. Zula

THE TEAM STUNNING alliance of Iron Man (Robert Downey Jr.), Captain America (Chris Evans), Hulk (Mark Ruffalo), Thor (Chris Hemsworth), Hawkeye (Jeremy Renner) and Black Widow (Scarlett Johansson), under the leadership of MICHÉLE NICK Fury (Samuel L. Jackson), is the most epic superhero movie ever made—and director Joss Whedon pulled off the high wire act with this, possible, and an exhilarating blend of action, comedy and movie magic.

At the heart of "The Avengers" is the idea of the "teamwork" which, when put together, can make the world a better place. It's a message that is as timely as it is timeless, and it's the reason why this movie is so popular.

When Thor's regal father, Odin (Tia Nibbelink), gets killed in the cinematic clash, it's the responsibility of Captain America's 30-year-old son, but Fury calls the help of "The Avengers" to tip the scales against their evil. Against all odds, the team's first mission is to stop the alien invasion from which the army could never be helped. It's a mission that is as timely as it is timeless, and it's the reason why this movie is so popular.

First time

Fury has his work cut out for him, though... because it's almost impossible to gather on his head. Inside looking superhuman in one room without breaking anything. It's a mission that is as timely as it is timeless, and it's the reason why this movie is so popular.

The Avengers may be their assembled eyes (and sense of direction).

most take the back seat, and director Joss Whedon has only been added to keep the production's severely limited budget. This year, "The Avengers" is the most popular movie in the world, and it's the reason why this movie is so popular.

If you think "The Avengers" is a good idea, you're right. It's a good idea, and it's the reason why this movie is so popular. It's a good idea, and it's the reason why this movie is so popular.

Whedon, who would have thought that the world would be so full of superheroes, is the reason why this movie is so popular. It's a good idea, and it's the reason why this movie is so popular.

Boy bands make big comeback

Movie scene...

NEW YORK—It seems like we can never get past the fact that, a decade after NSYNC and the Backstreet Boys launched the contemporary world boy bands era making countless millions, the British quartet that played third on the UK's "X Factor" in 2005, now on album, "Up All Night", debuts high on Billboard's Top 100 album chart. The Wanted, an all-American quartet, is spreading its second buzz at No. 4, and JLS' second album is at No. 10. JLS' lead single "Real Love" is at No. 1.

By Tom Ichniowski, a new American group that has a lot of Backstreet Boys in its sound, recently wrapped up a sold-out tour at New York's Radio City Music Hall, and will embark on a larger US and Canadian tour this summer. And, Mötley Crüe's new album, "Generation Swine", is at No. 1.

David E. the creative director of the film Disco, said, "It's amazing to have, especially on the film, the only thing from one generation, that never is definitely growing."

Concert tickets

It's reminiscent of a time when NSYNC had the Backstreet Boys as their main act, selling millions of albums and concert tickets, thanks to the millions of girls who wanted their time, money, and attention. And now, the Backstreet Boys are back.

Now, there are various boy bands releasing music simultaneously, helping drive one another to the top of the charts. "It's going to be that little wave in which that makes us want to go to the top," said 20-year-old Justin Bieber, a star of One Direction.

"It's cool to see them, after they have been so far away from the spotlight, but we just want to show the world what we're doing," said Justin Bieber, who is 15, and has been on the charts for a long time.

The many reasons for offering BS in culinary arts

By No Abasco

WHY A BS degree? The question had been thrown to Center for Culinary Arts school director Dr. Weston Luna. The Commission on Higher Education had just given CCA Manila approval to offer a four-year bachelors in Science in Culinary Management starting this June.

"Some of our students might not tell us that despite their career desire to learn culinary arts and become professional chefs, sometimes their parents encourage them to first take a full four-year degree course and then take up culinary. That means they have to spend six years in college before wanting their careers in the kitchen," Luna said.

"Offering the BSCHM solves this problem immediately. We have also designed the BSCHM to provide its degree with a strong foundation of becoming disciplined culinary professionals and highly skilled managers of commercial kitchens such as in hotels, restaurants and food-related institutions," she added.

The BSCHM degree program aims to provide students with the ability to integrate their culinary arts knowledge, skills, and attitude with entrepreneurial and management competencies. It includes the CCA's four-year diploma course in culinary arts and technology management with apprenticeship for field specialization, management in the context of professional food preparation, and college-level learning through general education.

There will also be specialized subjects like field application of culinary management that include menu, information, nutrition and well-being, colorings, sustainable practices and nutrition.

What is it now for graduates of BSCHM? According to Luna, "Graduates of the Culinary Management degree program are well-equipped to pursue employment in a variety of culinary-related fields similar to those taking the school's existing two-year diploma courses but with greater opportunity to move up the ranks and take on greater management roles."

Job prospects, in this respect, include junior managers and supervisors in the food service, entrepreneurship, and chefs in a variety of new roles. Other indicators of career prospects are the emerging trends shaping new demands in food preparation and presentation, which is essential commercial food service operations.

Outsourcing trend

In response to new food demands, restaurants in both the private and public sectors (i.e., institutions in business and industry, education, healthcare, senior centers, heritage and leisure attractions, and increasingly hotels) have opted to outsource their food service and restaurant operations.

Food manufacturers, restaurant suppliers, and even restaurants are also now turning to chefs to improve and drive the quality of their products. In all this, quality of instruction comes as the industry battles with a compelling need for chefs capable of preparing students to succeed in an innovative and challenging environment.

What is the future for culinary arts in the Philippines and globally? "Demand and innovation continued to drive growth in the food service industry and consequently its employment prospects. On a global scale, travel and tourism is expected to maintain its leading role in driving growth and generating employment with innovation creating new products and markets," said Luna.

By 2021, the global travel and tourism industry is expected to grow by 4.2 percent per annum to $2,960.5 billion (2.8 percent of gross domestic product) and account for 128,447,000 jobs directly or indirectly (21,270,000 ILO's estimate). This includes employment by hotels, passenger transportation services, as well as cruise lines and leisure industries directly supported by tourism.

Key employment generator

More specific to the Philippines, tourism and food services is expected to continue as a key employment generator with overall needs and food service managers highlighted.

Two Filipinos to join 2012 Olympics torch relay

ICMG has hand-picked eight delegates across Asia, Middle East and Africa, and out of them eight, three are from the Philippines, two of whom are from Cronos Plaza and Holiday Inn Manila Galleria.

Joey Mall, sales and services assistant of Cronos Plaza Manila, and Marcy Reyes, executive housekeeper of Holiday Inn, will represent ICMG in the prestigious Olympics torch relay. They were selected by IOC from thousands from all IOC properties around the world for their inspiring stories.

Mall was chosen for his heroic act during Typhoon Ondoy, when instead of fleeing to safety with his belongings, he chose to stay and rescue his family as even an old neighbor he barely knew. While facing the dangers of rising waters, he carried his family back and was rescued by his family.

In the height of the typhoon,

Joey lost all of his belongings and had to be on his own for a week to recover. Joey said he has no regrets, saying he was able to save what he deemed as precious. Besides, on the other hand, now he has for his 15th years of service in Holiday Inn Manila, the double location in the city, where, as a devoted employee, also was able to perform his duties without the help of a family. The continues to be committed to his role as mother to his child and has continued to be a devoted mother that moved for the first month as employees of the month in June of 2010 and continued to receive management positions including purchasing manager and his current post.

Andrés Reyes' demands at home and work, the role he plays in some of the community by running for a cruise and joining holiday programs. In the end, Marcy has proven that dedication in family commitment to work and caring for the community is all together possible.

A total of 8,000 international people will carry the Olympic Flame during the torch relay after being lit in Greece, the Olympic Flame will arrive in the US on May 18. Torchbearers will carry the Flame through more than 1,000 cities, towns and villages in the US.
